

subsiding of this contest between the fresh and salt water; until which period, inevitable destruction must be the fate of all mariners who attempt to approach this tremendous bar.