

CHAPTER XI.

GENERAL ACCOMMODATIONS:—HOTELS, TAVERNS, &c.;
POST-CHAISES; AND AN ACCOUNT OF STEAM-BOATS,
&c.

THE accommodations for strangers and occasional residents in London, have the same comparative excellence as those enjoyed by the inhabitants themselves. The hotels, inns, taverns, and lodging-houses, possess both convenience and cleanliness; and, in all the principal ones, an inmate may either reside in privacy, or mix with company, as inclination dictates. Commodious private lodging may be found in many eligible situations throughout the metropolis; and in many of the first situations at the west end of the town are hotels, where the most elevated in rank and distinction meet with adequate and comfortable residences and entertainments. The accommodations of the principal taverns and coffee houses in all the other quarters of London, and more particularly in the city, are equally respectable, though, perhaps not so splendid.

Hotels, Taverns, Coffee Houses, &c. in London.

Africa and Senegal coffee-house, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill	Arthur's club-house, St. James's street
Albion coffee-house, St. James's- street	Axe hotel and coffee-house, Al- dermanbury
Albion tavern, Aldersgate-street	Baron and Co's. coffee-house, Nassau-street, Soho
Aldersgate-street coffee-house, 168, Aldersgate-street	Baker's coffee-house, 'Change- alley, Cornhill
American and New England coffee-house, Threadneedle-st.	Bank coffee-house, opposite the Bank
Anderton's coffee-house, 126, Fleet-street	Baptist's-head coffee-house, Al- dermanbury
Angel coffee-house and hotel, St. Clement's, Strand	Bath hotel, Arlington-street
Angel Inn, Angel-st. Newgate-st.	Batson's coffee-house, Cornhill
Antigallican coffee-ho., Thread- needle-street	Batt's hotel, Jermyn-street
	Batt's new hotel, Dover-street