

CHAPTER XLIV.

KEW GARDENS.

PAGE

Sir Henry Capel's Garden in the Seventeenth Century—The Pleasure Grounds of Kew House begun by the Prince of Wales—Improvement of the Gardens under Sir Joseph Banks—The Gardens taken in charge by the Commissioners of Woods and Forests—Appointment of Sir William Hooker as Director and Mr. John Smith as Curator—Transformation of the Botanic Gardens—Formation of the Museum of Practical or Economical Botany—Additions to the Pleasure Grounds—Extent and Condition of the Gardens in 1848—General Description of Kew Gardens—The Entrance Gateways—The Old Orangery now Museum No. 3—The Temple of the Sun—The Herbaria Grounds—Museum No. 2—The Temple of Æolus—The Tropical Aquarium—The Victoria Regia—The Orchid House—The Succulent House—Tropical Fern House—The Great Palm House—Museum No. 1—The Old Arboretum—The Pleasure Grounds—The Chinese Pagoda—The Ruin—The Temple of Victory—The Pantheon—The Flagstaff—The Temperate House, or Winter Garden—Miss North's Collection of Paintings—The "Queen's Cottage"—Mr. William Aiton—William Cobbett—Sir William Jackson Hooker—Sir Joseph D. Hooker—The Herbarium—The Jodrell Laboratory . . . 410

CHAPTER XLV.

MORTLAKE.

Situation and Boundaries of Mortlake—Population—Its Etymology—Descent of the Manor—The Parish Church—Sir John Bernard—The Catholic Church of St. Mary Magdalen—Christ Church—Boot and Shoemakers' Benevolent Institution—Oliver Cromwell's House—Sir Henry Taylor—East Sheen—Edward Jesse—Amy Robsart—Sir Robert Dudley—Sir William Temple—Dr. Pinckney's School—Lord Castlereagh—Lord Grey—Sir Archibald Macdonald—Mr. W. S. Gilpin—Dr. Dee, the Astrologer—Mortlake Tapestry Works—Potteries . . . 425

CHAPTER XLVI.

THE UNIVERSITY BOAT-RACE.

The Crowds of Spectators brought together to witness the Race—The "Blue" Fever—Interest to Londoners occasioned by the University Boat-Race—Scenes of the Road from London on the Boat-Race Day—Popularity of the Boat-Race among the Ladies of England—Scenes on the River—The Press-Boat and the Umpire's Stamer—By Rail to the Scene of the Race—Putney and Mortlake on Boat-Race Day—Description of the Race—Past History of Rowing as an old English Amusement—The Race for Doggett's Coat and Badge—A London Regatta—The First Students' Race upon the Thames—The Earliest Race between the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge—Accounts of subsequent Races—Table showing the Results of the Race from its Institution. . . . 439

CHAPTER XLVII.

BARNES.

Situation, Boundaries, and Extent of the Parish—Its Etymology—History of the Manor—Its several Lessees—The Parish Church—Dr. Hezekiah Barton—Dr. Francis Hare—Dr. John Hulse—Dr. Warner—Dr. Christopher Wilson—Canon Melvill—The Rev. John Eilerton—Robert Beale—Mr. Hiam, otherwise Alice's Coppe—Yew-trees—Barnes Terrace—Murder of the Count and Countess D'Anstränge—Mr. Bolton Corney—Lady Archer—Barnes Common—An Impertinent Hoax—Henry Fielding, the Novelist—Other Noted Residents—Castlemans—West Middlesex Waterworks—Hammersmith Suspension Bridge—The Culture of Cedar-trees carried on at Barnes—Barn Elms—Jacob Tonson and the Kit-Cat Club—Sir Francis Walsingham and Queen Elizabeth—Heidegger, Master of the Revels to George II.—Cowley the Poet—Peppy's Visits to Barn Elms—Duel between the Duke of Buckingham and the Earl of Shrewsbury—Madder grown at Barn Elms—Cobbett here cultivated Indian Corn—The Mansion of Barn Elms modernised by Sir Richard Hoare—Sir John and Lady Kennedy—Sir Lancelot Shadwell . . . 450

CHAPTER XLVIII.

ROEHAMPTON.

Situation and General Appearance of the Parish—Population—Putney or Mortlake Park—The Earl of Portland, Lord Treasurer—Christian, Countess of Devonshire—Roehampton Grove—Mrs. Lyne-Stephens æ/c Duvernay—The Roman Catholic Convent—Lord Ellenborough—The Parish Church—Roehampton House—Parkstead—The Earl of Benborough—Manresa House—A Jesuit Community—Lord Rockingham—Lord Giffard—Lord Langdale—Sir J. L. Knight-Brace—Royal School for Daughters of Military Officers—Mount Clare—Dover House and Devonshire House—Roehampton Gate . . . 464